THE GOOD SAMARITAN

The story of the good Samaritan is a parable. A parable is an earthly story with a heavenly meaning taught by Jesus.

A lawyer came to Jesus with a question to test him. He asked Jesus, "Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?" (Luke 10:25). Eternal life means going to Heaven and living forever.

Jesus responded by asking him what was written in the Bible and how he interpreted it. The lawyer answered by saying, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, with all your strength, and with all your mind" (Luke 10:25).

Jesus told him this was true and agreed the lawyer would live forever in Heaven if he did this. The man wanted to know more though, so he asked Jesus who his neighbors are. Jesus answered with the parable of the good Samaritan.

A Jewish man was traveling from Jerusalem to Jericho. This trip took a full day or two of walking. The road was rocky and surrounded by small hills. The man was humming to himself while walking. A group of bandits suddenly jumped out from behind a hill. They took his belongings and tore off most of his clothing. They did not want him to follow them, so they beat him up badly and left him lying on the side of the road bleeding.

A priest walking down the same path came by a few minutes later. He noticed the man lying on the side of the road. Instead of running over to help the man, he crossed the road and walked on the other side. He acted like he did not even see the injured man.

Another man, known as a Levite, was walking down the same road around an hour later. Levites assisted priests in their work. The Levite slowed down and walked a little closer to the man. However, he kept walking without helping him at all even though he could tell he was badly hurt.

A few minutes later another man, a Samaritan, came walking by. Jews did not usually treat Samaritans well. The two groups did not usually get along. Instead of ignoring the hurt man though, the Samaritan poured expensive oil and wine on the sores to prevent them from getting infected. He covered the sores with bandages. He lifted the man onto his donkey and took him to an inn to care for him.

The Samaritan took out enough money so the hurt man could stay at the inn until he was well enough to leave. He paid the front desk clerk and asked him to care for the man. The Samaritan would return to pay for any extra costs.

When Jesus finished his story, Jesus asked the lawyer who he thought was the neighbor. The lawyer said the man who showed compassion and helped him. Jesus told the lawyer to go and do the same (Luke 10:37).

Jesus says we should love our neighbors, but strangers too. Jesus wants people to be nice and help others when they can. Since the man in the parable was a Samaritan, this story is known as the "Good Samaritan" parable.
